The Formula for Care

Home after receiving out-of-province care, James, a medically fragile one year old was running out of specialized baby formula.

James' mother came to us for more, but there was none available in the province. That's when one of the Region's dietitians jumped into action.

“As a last effort, I tried calling the manufacturer product representative. By 7:15 a.m. the next morning I was able to hand James' mother the formula,” reported the dietitian.

With a baby as sick as theirs, these parents had experienced a lot in health care. They said the lengths this dietitian went to care for James was one of the most positive experiences they've had.
